About FAPAC

ADVOCACY gives us a seat at the table ... FAPAC gives us a voice.

Consider it an investment in your bottom line. That's right, you get a return for your participation. Whether it is a tax on architectural services, statewide code changes, or the legislative review of architects' licensure requirements, the Florida Legislature addresses issues that can cost you plenty.

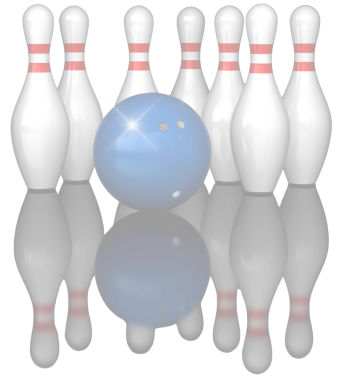

Architecture is among the most highly regulated -- and most complex -- professions of any field. By investing in FAPAC, you raise the level of awareness of architects in the political process. Additionally, you can help elect lawmakers who are supportive of your political agenda, and most importantly, understand the nature of your profession.

In recent years, FAPAC has targeted candidates that have made a difference. Through our political efforts and local input, we contributed to candidates who were major players and were elected.
